In the simplest form, Heidexpropagate platform is a form of speculative futures trading, whereby the payoff is either a pre-agreed amount or nothing at all. This total dual outcome is the reason the term "trading" is used. trading Options can be applied to a broad number of assets, including commodities, stocks, indices and even currency pairs. The main prerequisite required by these assets is that their values fluctuate constantly throughout each trading day. This is important as you never actually buy an asset when you purchase a trading option; you are simply making a speculative investment on an assets behavior over a set period of time. trading options have gained much popularity in recent years, due to their simple up/down nature, the low cost required to participate and the increased return on investment profits (ROI). They are now more accessible and successful than ever, and we provide an incredible opportunity for investors to earn vast profit in a space of one month. Anti-money Laundering Policy

Heidexpropagate does not tolerate money laundering and supports the fight against money launders. Heidexpropagate follows the guidelines set by the United Kingdom's joint money laundering steering group. The United Kingdom's is a full member of the Financial Action Task Force(FATF), the intergovernmental body whose purpose is to combat money laundering and terrorist financing. Heidexpropagate now has policies in place to deter people from laundering money.

- Ensuring clients have valid proof of identification
- Maintaining records of identification information
- Determining that clients are not known or suspected terrorist by checking their names against list of known or suspected terrorist.
- Informing clients that the information they provide may be used to verify their identity
- Closely following clients' money transactions
- Not accepting cash, money orders or third party transactions
- Money laundering occurs when funds from an illegal/criminal activity are moved through the financial system in such a way as to make it appear that the funds have come from legitimate sources.

Money Laundering Usually follows three stages: Firstly, cash or cash equivalents are placed into the financial system. Secondly, money is transferred or moved to other accounts, through a series of financial transactions designed to obscure the origin of the money. And finally, the funds are re-introduced into the economy so that the funds appear to have come from legitimate sources (e.g. closing a futures account and transferring the funds to a bank account). Trading accounts are one vehicle that can be used to launder illicit funds or to hide the true owner of the funds. In particular, a trading account can be used to execute financial transactions that help obscure the origins of the funds Heidexpropagate Financial Serices direct funds withdrawal back to the original source of remittance, as a preventive measure. International Anti-money Laundering requires financial services institutions to be aware of potential money laundering abuses that could occur in a customer account and implement a compliance program to deter, detect and report potential suspicious activity. These guidelines have been implemented to protect Heidexpropagate and its clients.
